Context

Your situation and what is at stake

You overpay for a classification nobody has reviewed since

Spain's Supreme Court has been clear since 2018: each employee contributes for what they actually do, not for the company's declared activity, under Supreme Court rulings (STS, Sentencias del Tribunal Supremo) 1550/2018 and 762/2019. With the new premium schedule and the move to the National Classification of Economic Activities (CNAE-2025), the whole reviewable period now falls under these rules.

The gap between the rate the company applies and the one the Tesorería General de la Seguridad Social (TGSS, the Social Security treasury) considers correct ends in inspection reports, penalties or litigation, and a wrong classification means overpaying every month.

At Ayming we believe a company should neither fear an inspection report nor pay more than it owes. The same doctrine that raises the driver's rate to 6.70% lowers the office engineer's to 1.50%, and we apply it both ways.

Why a classification stops reflecting the real job

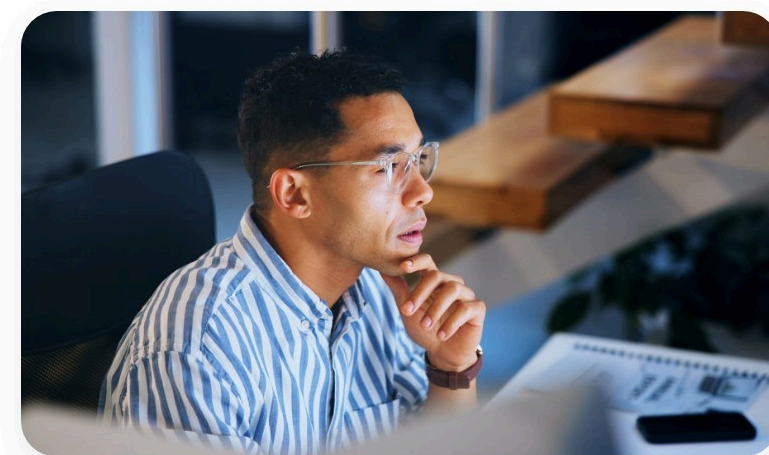

Acquisitions and mergers

Same job, two rates. Each deal brings in contribution accounts with their original codes and classifications, and employees move between sites and companies without their account following them.

Monthly settlement

Inherited criteria, never checked. The direct settlement system proposes each month and the company confirms. The occupation codes set on the hiring date pass from one company to another, and from one payroll team to the next, without anyone reviewing them.

2026 regulatory changes

Rates that rise unnoticed. Cuadro II, the occupation table, has been shortened and the removed occupations revert to the activity rate. And a company that did not report its CNAE-2025 code is automatically charged the highest rate in its family.

BILLED IN SOCIAL CONTRIBUTIONS

For industrial groups that want to comply with the rules and pay the right amount of social contributions, Ayming International HR reviews the classification and the delegated payments, recovers the amounts overpaid and corrects the system settings, on a success fee basis.

Two areas of study

Two different mechanisms, one data set.

AREA 1 AT/EP contribution rates

The goal: declare the correct classification and contribute the right amount, correcting deviations both upward and downward.

Compliance. The contribution rate for workplace accidents and occupational illnesses (AT/EP) depends on the company's activity (CNAE) and on each employee's actual occupation, and the actual occupation prevails.

Savings. An occupation classified above its real risk overpays. Correcting it lowers the rate and allows what was paid to be recovered.

AREA 2 Delegated temporary incapacity payments

The company advances the benefit and deducts it from its contribution settlement until actually reimbursed. The line shows, by days of leave, what it recovers and what it bears.

COMMON ILLNESS • DAYS OF LEAVE

1 to 3

No benefit

4 to 15

60%, company cost

16 to 20

60%, INSS/Mutua cost

From day 21

75%, INSS/Mutua cost

ACCIDENT AND EP • DAYS OF LEAVE

Day 1

Full salary

From day 2

75%, INSS/Mutua cost, no waiting period

The percentage is the temporary incapacity (IT) benefit applied to the benefit base. The cost borne by the Instituto Nacional de la Seguridad Social (INSS, the national Social Security institute) or by the Mutua (the Social Security collaborating mutual insurer) is advanced as a delegated payment and recovered from the settlement.

AREA 1

AT/EP contribution rates

Activity mapping

Analyse Air Liquide's practices and identify the activities actually carried out at each site.

Occupation mapping

Identify the Cuadro II occupations that can give rise to a specific AT/EP rate, different from the one derived from the CNAE.

Impact quantification

Compare the rate actually applied with the one that should have applied, and quantify historical overpayments and future savings.

Claim and correction

Prepare the refund and correction claims before the Seguridad Social, with supporting documentation.

Follow-up of claims and litigation

Follow administrative or court decisions through to their actual enforcement, coordinating with the competent bodies, with legal support in case of disputes or litigation.

AREA 2

Delegated temporary incapacity payments

Scope identification

Identify every IT case in the period not yet time-barred, generally up to the last 4 years.

Benefit classification

Classify each case by contingency and determine the delegated payment period and the amount involved.

Reconciliation and quantification

Compare the amounts Air Liquide paid as delegated payments with those actually offset in the contribution settlements.

Recovery of amounts

File the reimbursement claims with the competent body, with supporting documentation and follow-up until a decision is issued.

Collection and litigation

Collect the reimbursements once decided, coordinating with the competent bodies, with legal support in case of disputes or litigation.

Documents required

What we need from Air Liquide to start each area of the study.
